

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

KINESIOLOGY AND SPORT SCIENCESHEALTH EDUCATION 7-12TH GRADE TEACHING FIELD ENDORSEMENT

The Health Education 7th through 12th grade endorsement allows students to be qualified to teach health at the secondary level in the public or private sector. The endorsement requires 32 hours of specialized coursework, and must be paired with another teaching endorsement for initial certification. Beginning their freshman year, students at UNK have the opportunity to complete interactive experiences to practice teaching in a variety of health education settings due to the close partnerships with surrounding school districts. UNK believes in the value of hands-on learning and helps to guide students in these field experiences throughout their college career to develop quality educators who make a difference in the lives of students.

Traits for Success:

- The teacher is qualified, enthusiastic, prepared and organized.
- The teacher uses a variety of assessment and evaluation strategies.
- Activities are appropriate to the age and stage of development for each student.
- The teacher develops opportunities for the children to be physically active beyond the physical education time (intramurals, extracurriculars, and school wide initiatives such as daily physical activity).

Career Opportunities

- Teacher in Health Education
- Coach
- Work at a recreational facility in the area of Health and Physical Activity

Alumni profile

“I picked UNK because of the small class sizes. I wanted to become a teacher, and I knew UNK has one of the best Teacher Education colleges in the region,” said Kole Harrach, a 2015 graduate from North Platte, Nebraska.

“I did my student teaching at Alief Elsik High School in Houston. It was an incredibly large and diverse school district. I also got to help out with their boys’ basketball program, which was a great way to begin learning the ins and outs of coaching,” Harrach said.

Harrach is now in Lincoln, Nebraska at Pius X High School. He teaches boys’ PE and health, is the assistant boys’ and girls’ tennis coach and coaches 9th grade girls’ basketball. “I learned how to effectively communicate the importance of health and physical activity to others. I am able to share my knowledge and experiences with my students because of my classes at UNK,” Harrach said.

“The biggest way that UNK prepared me for my career was by giving me multiple opportunities for hands-on learning. I was able to do field experience work at both Kearney High School and Kearney Catholic High School. By the time I started student-teaching, I already had a lot of time in the classroom observing, assisting and teaching.”
