

Faculty Professional Development Resources

The Dean's Office and the departments leverage our resources to support faculty professional development by funding $2,000 in qualifying travel to present research at conferences. This funding is renewed annually, but does not accumulate from one year to the next. We are all encouraged to take advantage of this resource to support our ongoing professional development.

Starting in 2016/17, an additional funding source has been identified to support professional development for fulltime faculty, specifically related to teaching. This will include activities such as continuing education, training, and attendance at teaching and/or industry related conferences. All fulltime faculty are eligible for $1,000 in annual funding. Interested faculty should submit a written request to me, via email, with a Cc to your chairperson. Please describe the activity, anticipated costs, and a short reflection on how you anticipate this activity will support your development related to teaching. This funding source is a spendable Foundation account and will support up to 20-25 awards before it is expended.
