Mac users can easily create video screen recordings using the included QuickTime Player application. These videos can be helpful for creating software demonstrations and teaching materials.

You may upload your videos to YouTube or embed them to your Blackboard course. Statistic shows that students voluntarily watch videos to enhance their understanding of a topic, to learn the steps necessary to do something successfully, to understand the practical application of a theoretical concept, or to find a video that they can use during their own presentations.

To learn how, take one of our workshops by clicking Register for ITG Workshops.

For questions call Shahla 308-865-8861