Scope

This policy provides guidelines for reporting known or suspected fraud/misconduct at UNK and protection from retaliation for individuals who make good faith reports.

Policy Statement

All individuals may, and all UNK employees shall, report known or suspected instances of fraud/misconduct. Suspected fraud/misconduct is a reasonable belief or actual knowledge that fraud/misconduct has occurred or is occurring in the areas of Academic Matters, Accounting and Financials, Athletics, Human Resources, Information Technology, Medical, Research, Risk and Safety Matters, and others.

Two reporting mechanisms are available for good faith reports of known or suspected fraud/misconduct.

1. Confidential good faith reports may be made to senior administrators, academic deans or department chairs, unit directors, compliance officer or internal auditor. Individuals who identify themselves and make a good faith report of suspected fraud/misconduct are protected from retaliation and UNK will maintain their confidentiality to the extent possible under law.
2. Anonymous reports may be made via EthicsPoint—an independent third-party contractor—at (844) 348-9584 or www.nebraska.ethicspoint.com.

Procedures

- 1) Confidential good faith reports may be made directly to senior administrators, academic deans or department chairs, unit directors, or the chief compliance officer—who are obligated to report/refer the matter for investigation to appropriate university officials e.g., Chief Compliance Officer/Title IX Officer, Vice Chancellor, Chief Research Officer, Police Chief. All are obligated to maintain confidentiality of individuals making good faith reports to the extent possible under law and protect those individuals from retaliation.
- 2) Anonymous good faith reports may be made via EthicsPoint—an independent third-party vendor—at (844-348-9584) or www.nebraska.ethicspoint.com. EthicsPoint routes anonymous reports to either the Chief Compliance Officer or appropriate university official with notification to the Chief Compliance Officer. The Chief Compliance Officer is able to monitor the progress of all reports and investigations.
 - (a) If the Chief Compliance Officer is implicated in a report, the matter will be reported to the Internal Auditor.
 - (b) If the Internal Auditor is also implicated, the matter will be reported to the Senior Advisor to the Chancellor who will ensure appropriate investigation by a UNK/UNCA/independent official.

Definitions
