UNK
GRADUATE STUDIES

WELCOME BACK!

A new start time and a weather delay may have started the Spring 2021 semester off differently this year, but we are getting used to change these days. We've adapted to working from home with phones forwarded or alone in the office and to meet via zoom. Hopefully that hasn't been noticeable to you, because the one thing that has not changed is our dedication to serve you. The Graduate Admissions & Programs office staff would like to welcome you if this is your first semester and say 'welcome back' to those of you returning. We hope your semester goes smoothly from here on out. You can reach us at gradstudies@unk.edu if we can assist you in any way.

COUNSELING, SCHOOL PSYCHOLOGY, & FAMILY SCIENCE

- The Department of Counseling and School Psychology (CSP) promotes a field-based scientist/practitioner model in order to prepare culturally competent and compassionate professionals at the graduate level to provide service and leadership in school psychology, clinical mental health counseling, school counseling and student affairs.
- CSP is an interdisciplinary department committed to work towards equity and social justice within the College and University, our professions, and throughout the broader society.
- With our focus on student success and lifetime learning, we're committed to preparing clinically proficient counselors and school psychologists via state-of-the-art skills labs and comprehensive clinical training.

Degrees Include:

- Specialist Degree in School Psychology- Nationally accredited by National Association of School Psychologists (NASP)
- Master's of Science in Education in Clinical Mental Health Counseling- 1 of only 80 Community Counseling programs in the country that qualifies for CACREP accreditation
- Master's of Science in Education in School Counseling
 - Train professionals to work in rural and urban schools through a combination of online, blended, and live courses
- Master's of Science in Education in Student Affairs- Plan, direct, or coordinate student services and educational programming at universities and colleges.

Graduate Faculty Spotlight

What is your role at UNK and how long have you been with UNK?

I am an Associate Professor and the Graduate Program Committee Chair in the Communication Disorders department; I have been a faculty member at UNK for 12 years.

What is your favorite thing about your program/department?

The students, of course. I enjoy working with undergraduate and graduate students to develop their academic, research, clinical, and professional skills. It is refreshing and rewarding to work with students and see them succeed as professionals.

What is your favorite thing about UNK?

I love the sense of community at UNK. Across campus, faculty, staff, and students all contribute to making UNK a great place to learn and work.

What are your hobbies/interests (other than making UNK great)?

My hobbies include spending time with my family, cooking, traveling, and all things sports (watching - Go Lopers!, competing, fantasy leagues...you name it). I also enjoy reading, puzzles, and attempting to keep plants alive.

What advice would you give current graduate students?

Take advantage of the opportunities available to you. UNK has excellent resources available beyond the classroom that can really enhance your graduate student experience. I also would encourage students to connect with faculty members, again, maximizing their time as a graduate student to learn more about their field of study.

Greatest Educational Achievement?

Completing my doctoral program while also working full-time as Lecturer at UNK and having my first baby.

Graduate Student Spotlight

What inspired you to pursue a graduate degree?

This would be my second year in the Clinical Mental Health Counseling program. I am originally from Las Vegas, NV and did my undergraduate degree in Applied Psychology and Research Methodology in Denver, CO. I always knew I wanted to be in a helping profession and advocating for others has always been important to me, so going into the field of counseling seemed suitable. Eventually I want to own my own clinic, and to do so I knew I had to pursue a graduate level degree, so getting my masters at UNK has been a great fit.

What is your favorite thing about your graduate program?

The professors in my department are really invested in my academic and career aspirations, and have helped me plan to get into a PhD program. Despite the master's program being blended, the professors are always available and willing to take that extra time with students one-on-one.

What is your favorite thing about UNK?

As a campus, UNK is beautiful and the perfect size for me. It is always wonderful to see how the larger Kearney community comes together to support and show spirit for UNK.

What are my hobbies and interests (outside of cramming for exams and papers)?

Outside of academics I enjoy watching documentaries, shopping, spending time with my Poodle Stella, and I fly home as much as possible to spend time with my family. 😊
